Second Hand Air Tank for Sale in Sweden: 2025 Price List, Quotes & Wholesale Deals

Looking for second hand air tank prices in Sweden but stuck between quality concerns and budget limits? You're not alone. Hundreds of Swedish factories and workshops hunt for affordable compressed air solutions yearly. Here's the good news: Sweden's booming market for pre-owned industrial equipment lets you save up to 60% versus new units. Let's break down costs, suppliers, and smart buying tactics.

Why Sweden's Second Hand Air Tank Market Is Exploding (And How to Capitalize)

Sweden's manufacturing sector saved over EUR18 million in 2023 by switching to used air tanks, reports Nordic Industrial Journal. Government incentives for circular economy practices and tax breaks for SMEs have fueled this trend. In Gothenburg alone, second hand air tank sales jumped 23% last year.

2025 Price Guide: What to Expect for Used Air Tanks

A second hand air tank price in Sweden typically ranges from:

EUR300-EUR800 for 50-150L tanks (common in auto repair shops)

EUR1,200-EUR2,500 for 200-500L industrial models

30-50% lower than German or Polish quotes due to Sweden's surplus stock

Pro tip: Prices swing based on tank material (aluminum vs. steel), pressure capacity (10-300 bar), and remaining service life. Always ask for ASME certification scans.

Case Study: How Malmo Workshop Cut Costs by 40%

Malmo Hydraulics AB bought 10 used 200L air tanks last March through a Gothenburg supplier. Total cost: EUR9,800 vs EUR16,200 for new tanks. ROI came in 5 months due to increased production flexibility. Their secret? Negotiating bulk purchase discounts and opting for units with minor cosmetic flaws.

Negotiation Tactics Every Buyer Needs

Swedish suppliers usually include 3-6 month warranties on second hand air tanks. Use these talking points to slash prices:

- Ask about "dock rejected" shipments (tanks returned after visual inspection)
- Request pressure test videos before payment
- Compare prices with Danish wholesalers (EUR200-EUR500 higher on average)

The Wholesale Edge: Bulk Purchase Savings

Need 5+ units? Swedish cooperative purchasing groups like Nordic Air Tech Collective get members 12-18% lower price per piece. Last quarter, their group buy secured 30 tanks at EUR675 each - 22% below market rate.

Germany's new green manufacturing subsidies now cover used equipment imports from Sweden. That means tighter competition - act fast. Want exact quotes? Email suppliers with your tank specs and location. Most respond within 2 hours during business days.
