Second Hand Crawler Air Compressor for Sale in Colombia: 2025 Price List & Best Deals

Need a crawler air compressor but worried about budget? You're not alone. Over 60% of Colombian construction companies now consider used heavy machinery to cut costs. Let's break down current second hand crawler air compressor prices in Colombia and how to get the best ROI.

Why Prices Vary 40% for Used Crawler Compressors?

The average price per piece ranges from $18,000 to $35,000 USD in Colombian markets. Three factors create this wild swing:

Manufacturer origin: Chinese models (like SCM or Lonking) cost 25% less than German/GAT models

Operating hours: Units under 3,000 hrs sell 18% faster in Medellin auctions

Local import policies: Colombia's 10% tariff waiver for renewable energy projects affects dealer quotes

Case Study: Barranquilla Port Expansion Project

A contractor saved $92,000 USD buying 3 used crawler air compressors from Shanghai suppliers instead of new units. Key numbers:

Purchase cost: $24,500/unit (vs. $55,000 new)

Shipping time: 32 days from China to Cartagena

ROI achieved: 14 months through 24/7 drilling operations

2025 Price Trends & Hidden Costs

Used compressor price lists show 8% annual growth in Colombia, but smart buyers check:

1. Energy consumption: Older diesel models might cost $1.80/kWh vs $0.95/kWh for electric hybrids
2. Certification: SIC (Colombian Superintendency) approvals add $1,200-$2,000 to quotes
3. Transport: Moving a 15-ton unit from Bogota to Cali costs ~$850 USD

How to Negotiate with Suppliers?

Top Cartagena dealers told us: "Buyers who ask for detailed quotations get 7-12% discounts." Always request:

- o Maintenance history reports
- o Spare parts availability (check for Atlas Copco compatible models)
- o Local service network maps

Want the best deals? Contact verified suppliers through Colombia's National Mining Agency portal before December 2024 - they're offering VAT exemptions on 20+ used compressor models. Prices start at $16,900 USD for units with 6-month warranties.
