Second-Hand DTH Drilling Rig for Sale in Argentina: 2025 Price List, Quotation & Supplier Deals

Are you struggling to find cost-effective drilling solutions in Argentina's booming mining and construction sectors? With new rigs costing $150,000-$500,000 USD, savvy buyers are turning to second-hand DTH drilling rigs to slash equipment budgets by 40-60%. Let's break down how to navigate the Argentine market safely.

Why Argentina's Demand for Used DTH Rigs is Surging

Argentina imported $28M worth of drilling equipment in 2024, with second-hand machinery making up 35% of purchases. Mining projects in San Juan and oil exploration in Neuquen are driving this trend. But here's the catch: 62% of buyers report issues like hidden mechanical faults or inflated price per piece from unverified sellers.

Current Price Benchmarks (2025)

Typical second-hand DTH drilling rig prices in Argentina range:

Small-capacity rigs (100-150 m depth): $65,000-$90,000

Mid-range models (200-300 m): $110,000-$160,000

Heavy-duty units (400+ m): $180,000-$280,000

German-made used rigs cost 15-20% more than Chinese equivalents. However, Chinese suppliers like Sany and XCMG dominate local inventories due to faster shipping from Brazil and Chile.

Smart Buying Guide: Get Maximum ROI

Follow this 4-step process to avoid costly mistakes:

Verify drilling hours through OEM software - not seller's claims

Demand inspection reports (common in Buenos Aires transactions)

Compare supplier quotations with customs clearance fees included

Negotiate 5-10% discounts for bank transfers or bulk purchases

Case Study: Minería SA's $47,000 Saving

A Mendoza-based company bought a 2018 Schlumberger DTH rig for $123,000 - 38% below new unit costs.

Key success factors:

Used MercadoLibre's escrow service for secure payment

Hired a Rosario-based inspector to verify 1,872 operational hours

Saved $12,000 using Argentina's temporary mining equipment tax waiver
