Second Hand Drilling Bit Prices in Norway 2025: Updated Price List, Quotes & Buying Guide

Looking for second hand drilling bit prices in Norway? You're not alone. Over 60% of Norwegian drilling contractors now use refurbished tools to cut costs - but finding reliable quotes and suppliers can feel like drilling through solid rock. Let's break down real market prices, trusted suppliers, and ROI-focused buying strategies.

Why Norwegian Buyers Struggle With Second Hand Drilling Bit Costs

A 2023 study by Oslo Energy Forum shows prices for used drilling bits in Norway swing wildly - from NOK 4,000 to NOK 18,000 per piece. One contractor paid NOK 12,500 for a "barely used" TCI bit last month... only to discover it had 300+ operational hours. Ouch.

Case Study: How Odfjell Drilling Saved 35%

By partnering with certified German refurbishers, this Stavanger-based firm cut per-meter drilling costs by 35%. Their secret? Buying pre-inspected PDC bits at NOK 7,200/piece instead of new ones costing NOK 22,000+. "We now stock 40% refurbished bits without compromising safety," says Chief Engineer Lars Holm.

2025 Price List & Supplier Deals for Norway

Here's what to expect when buying second hand drilling equipment this year:

PDC bits: NOK 6,500-15,000/piece (Size: 8-16 inches)

Used TCI bits: NOK 4,200-9,800 (12-20 hours runtime)

Bulk orders (10+ units): 12-18% discounts from Chinese wholesalers

Your Step-by-Step Buying Guide

Follow this drill bit checklist to avoid costly mistakes:

Verify certifications - Look for ISO 9001 or DSLA stamps

Demand digital logs showing exact usage hours

Compare shipping costs - German suppliers often beat Chinese quotes for fast Norway delivery

Market Trends You Can't Ignore

China now supplies 43% of pre-owned drilling tools to Norway via Hamburg port - but wait times average 28 days. Local Norwegian suppliers like DRB Norway charge 8-15% more but provide same-week delivery and free re-sharpening services.
