Second Hand Engineering Drilling Rig for Sale in Italy 2024: Price List, Quotation & ROI Guide

Why Italian Buyers Rush for Used Drilling Rigs

Italy's construction boom demands second hand engineering drilling rigs like never before. A 2023 report shows a 15% spike in used equipment sales across Milan and Rome. Contractors face two problems: new rigs cost EUR180,000+, while delayed projects risk penalty fees up to EUR5,000/day.

The Hidden Cost Trap

Many first-time buyers lose money on "cheap" rigs without proper inspection. Torino Civil Works wasted EUR23,000 repairing a 2015 model with hidden engine faults last year. That's why smart operators now:

- Demand OEM service records

- Compare price per piece across German vs. Italian sellers

- Test hydraulic systems onsite

2024 Price Trends: What You'll Pay

Current second hand engineering drilling rig prices in Italy range from EUR65,000 to EUR130,000*. Here's how key factors sway costs:

Age & Hours: A 2018 Soilmec SR-30 with 4,500hrs sells for EUR103k (17% less than 2020 models).

Local Deals: Naples-based reseller Geodrill offers 5% discounts for cash payments over EUR80k.

Genova Tunneling Co. bought a refurbished Bauer BG28 for EUR91k in 2023. After completing three highway projects, they recouped EUR132k - proving used drilling rig ROI beats leasing.

How to Buy Without Risks

- Get instant quotations from 3+ verified sellers

- Confirm import taxes (6-22% for non-EU rigs)

- Use escrow payments until final inspection

Why German Rigs Cost 10% More

While Italy focuses on price, German sellers like Liebherr emphasize low-hour machines (avg. 2,800hrs). But with China's XCMG rigs flooding Europe at EUR58k-75k, budget buyers now mix quality and cost.

Your Next Step

With Italy's 2025 infrastructure budget hitting EUR32B, demand for engineering drilling rigs will keep rising.
