Second Hand Four-Wheel Screw Diesel Compressor Price in Peru 2024: Cost, Quotation & Supplier Deals

Need reliable air compression for mining or construction in Peru? Second hand four-wheel screw diesel compressors could save you 40-60% versus new units. But how do you find quality machines at fair prices without risking downtime? Let's break down current market rates, trusted suppliers, and ROI strategies.

Why Prices Vary for Used Screw Compressors in Peru

Peru's mining sector (6.3% GDP growth in 2023) and booming construction projects demand rugged mobile compressors. A 2023 Statista report shows a 22% surge in used machinery imports from China and Germany. But watch out - three factors swing price per piece:

Operational Hours: Units under 5,000 hrs often cost 50% more than high-mileage ones

Add-Ons: Integrated air dryers or advanced controls add $1,200-$3,000 to base cost

Local Taxes: 18% VAT + 6% customs fees impact final quotation

Real-World Cost Comparison: Atlas Copco vs Chinese Models

Lima-based Constructora Herrera saved $28,000 by choosing a refurbished 2019 screw diesel compressor from Shanghai ($32,500) over a new European model. Maintenance costs? Just $0.08/kWh versus $0.12 for older piston types.

Where to Buy Reliable Used Compressors in Peru

Top suppliers offer certified rebuilt machines with 6-12 month warranties. Look for:

Lucion Machinery (Lima): Specializes in Japan-sourced units - average price $24,000-$37,000

Maquinarias Pana (Arequipa): Partners with Sullair and Ingersoll Rand - 15% volume discounts for wholesale orders

Pro Tip: Always request oil analysis reports and cylinder pressure tests before finalizing your buying guide checklist.

Government Incentives & Market Trends

Peru's Ministry of Energy offers 10% tax rebates for machinery used in renewable energy projects until 2025. This makes four-wheel screw diesel compressors ideal for solar farm installations in Ica and Moquegua regions.
