Stationary Air Compressor Price in South Korea 2025: Cost, Quotation & Best Supplier Deals

If you're asking, "How much does a stationary air compressor cost in South Korea?", you're not alone. Over 72% of buyers in manufacturing and construction prioritize upfront pricing and ROI calculations before purchasing. In 2025, prices range from KRW3.8 million ($2,800) for small 5 HP units to KRW27 million ($20,000) for industrial 50 HP models. Let's crack the code to find cost-effective deals.

Why Stationary Air Compressor Prices Vary Widely in South Korea

Last year, a Busan auto parts factory wasted KRW6.2 million on an oversized compressor. Avoid their mistake by understanding price influencers:

Brand origin: U.S./German compressors (Ingersoll Rand, Atlas Copco) cost 15-25% more than Korean brands like Doosan

Energy efficiency: Tier-4 models save KRW1.1 million/year in power costs but add KRW4M to upfront price

Import taxes: ASEAN trade deals cut China-made unit costs by 8% vs EU imports

2025 Price List: What Korean Buyers Actually Pay

Data from 47 Gwangyang port shipments show real 2025 price per piece trends:

Rotary screw type (10 HP): KRW8.4M-KRW12.7M

Piston type (3 HP workshop): KRW2.9M-KRW4.1M

Oil-free dental compressors: KRW5.2M with 5-year warranty

Smart Buying Strategy: Get Quotations That Beat Market Rates

Seoul-based Kocom saved 32% on a 25 HP compressor using this buying guide:

Check certifications: KS B 6281 (Korean standards) + ISO 1217 test reports

Compare suppliers: Domestic distributors vs. direct China/Germany imports

Request duty-paid quotes: 10% VAT included, delivery to Incheon warehouse

Government Incentives Cut Your Costs

South Korea's 2025 Eco-Equipment Program offers KRW1.8M rebates for compressors with 88 dB noise levels or lower. Combine this with bulk purchase discounts from Ulsan Machinery Expo vendors for total savings up to 41%.
